Winning can mean more than medals

The Winter Olympics are being held in Torino, Italy, with all the pageantry the games deserve.

Once again, we see athletes from many nations joining in competition that displays the fierce will to win and the sportsmanship they have.

When millions watch the games around the world, they are thrilled if athletes from their countries win medals. Everyone wants to be proud of their country and winning Olympic medals is a great source of national pride.

Sometimes though, medals can represent so much more than winning and pride. Sometimes, winning a medal can breathe life into a suffering nation.

For those of us who were alive then and witnessed it, we will never forget it. Even now, 26 years later, some of us still get tears in our eyes at the memory of it. We can still hear the cheers and see our flag being carried on the shoulders of those players. We can still feel the overwhelming emotion. It's like it happened yesterday.

For those of you who weren't around then, let me tell you what I'm talking about.

In the late 1970s, Americans were still smarting over Vietnam. In 1973, we saw the chaos as Americans and Vietnamese tried to flee Saigon before the North Vietnamese Army arrived. It wasn't pretty, it wasn't noble and most of us felt shame as we watched it happen.

It was called peace with honor, but it was anything but that.

In the years that followed, America faced many problems. We had a bad recession, high unemployment, double-digit inflation and interest rates. Oil producing countries had launched an oil embargo against us as punishment for our support of Israel. The result was high gas prices and long lines to fill up because of the severe gasoline shortage.

And then, on Nov. 4, 1979, the American Embassy in Tehran was attacked by Iranian militants. The building was ransacked, government papers were seized or destroyed and worst of all, 52 Americans were taken hostage.

The United States, the superpower of the world, was helpless and humiliated. As our government seemed impotent to do anything about it, the hostages remained captives in Iran. We had no idea what their conditions were. As we watched the evening news every night, we were reminded it was day 222 . . . day 223 . . . day 224 and so on.

The Way I See It

A rescue attempt ended in disaster when two helicopters crashed into each other in the Iranian desert and several U.S. Marines were killed. Yet more humiliation.

It was the height of the Cold War. The Soviets kept saber rattling and the Chinese called us a paper tiger.

Letter to the editor

Resident angry at having home burglarized

Last week our house was burglarized. The items stolen included an expensive bottle of imported Russian vodka, a carton of Davidoff cigarettes and $125 in cash.

Everyone I have talked to agrees that this was done by teenagers. The general consensus is that teenage burglaries are simply a normal part of Kwajalein life and that I fall into the minority of victims who actually report it. Apparently you should expect teens to steal alcohol. So we must live among a lot of unfit parents who have no control over their hooligan children. There should be heavy consequences on the parents of kids caught burglarizing homes. The anecdotal evidence is enough for me to conclude that most burglaries go unreported. I encourage everyone to report burglaries to Kwajalein Police, so that they can get a more realistic impression of how much crime is happening here.

Is there a curfew for kids on Kwajalein? Who's enforcing it? Apparently some parents don't consider it their responsibility, so whose is it? I think this issue merits serious attention and that the consequences for breaking curfew should be extremely undesirable.

It's obvious that many people know which kids here drink and smoke, so I have to conclude that the parents of these kids also know and just don't care. Parents need to act like parents. If you have children, then it's your responsibility to raise them right. It's not my responsibility to stand guard against your ingrate offspring. One of these days they will get caught in the act by someone who won't go as easy on them as their parents and the local authorities have.

The guilty parties who burglarized us will probably never be caught, but I am willing to offer a $200 reward to anyone with information leading to an arrest and conviction.

Shared goals, challenges discussed at RMI/U.S. joint committee meeting

By Nell M. Drumheller
Editor

A delegation including representatives from the Republic of the Marshall Islands, U.S. Army Kwajalein Atoll, U.S. Space and Missile Defense Command and U.S. Pacific Command met in Honolulu Feb. 1 for the RMI/U.S. Joint Committee meeting.

The meeting, required biannually by the U.S./RMI amended compact agreement, was hosted by PACOM.

Describing the meeting, U.S. Ambassador Greta Morris said, "It is important because our two nations have such a close and special relationship. As in all relationships, to keep our existing ties strong, we need to meet on a regular basis to discuss our shared goals and challenges, as well as to discuss areas where we differ."

Minister of Foreign Affairs Gerald Zackios, RMI Ambassador to the U.S. Banny deBrum, Kwajalein Senator Justin deBrum, RMI Representative to USAKA Noda Lojkar, Representative of the RMI Consulate Biuma Samson and Ministry of Foreign Affairs U.S. Desk Officer Monique Levy-Strauss represented the RMI at the meeting.

In his opening remarks, Zackios identified issues for discussion: The Avian Flu; enduring consequences of nuclear testing in the Marshalls and future agreements between landowners and use of land by USAKA.

"We consider use of land by USAKA in the Republic of the Marshall Islands as a national asset," Zackios said.

Morris said, "The United States wants to achieve a secure, peaceful, prosperous Pacific region and world. I believe the RMI shares this goal."

Specific issues discussed included:

- Vocational and educational training opportunities at USAKA – Kwajalein Range Services, the primary contractor for USAKA, received a grant from the RMI National Training Council for $100,000 in order to provide vocational training for at least six employees. An RMI citizen is scheduled to be trained as a pharmacy technician at the Kwajalein Hospital.

- Banking at USAKA – There is now a Bank of the Marshall Islands on Kwajalein.

- Fiber optic project update – The survey is complete.

- Recruiting – RMI citizens are actively recruited to join the U.S. military.

- USAKA contracting laws and regulations – USAKA provided a briefing on efforts being made to ensure RMI contractors are given fair and equal opportunities to bid and work on projects within the constraints of the laws and regulations of the United States. This issue is considered ongoing and was moved to the Joint Labor Relations Board agenda.

- Access by third country nationals Ebeye medical personnel – Under the revised entry and exit policies, October 2004, TCNs must interview with USAKA security personnel and then have an escort. According to Maj. Jeff Klein, chief USAKA Host Nations Office, this program is working smoothly. The issue was closed.

- Work permits for third country nations working for USAKA – At the first JLRB held Dec. 7, 2004, the RMI government reiterated that prior to hiring a TCN, USAKA must notify the RMI government to certify they have been unable to find an RMI candidate for the position. Klein said contractors on Kwajalein have been educated on this subject and completed comprehensive reviews of all employees to ensure compliance with this. This issue was moved to the JLRB agenda.

- Movement of the Kwajalein laundry facility to the dock security checkpoint – This issue was closed. According to COL Beverly Stipe, USAKA/RTS commander, the move would not take place under the current budget.

Briefings were given on the following subjects: U.S. Coast Guard, the Asia Pacific Center for Security Studies, Joint Interagency Task Force West, DoD-PACOM medical services, U.S. Armed Forces recruiting and Joint Task Force – Homeland Defense.

- The United States Coast Guard is scheduled to support Operation Island Chief in the May/June timeframe. It will provide an HC-130 for aerial surveillance and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Galveston Island will participate, patrolling Guam's EEZ border. The U.S. Coast Guard is available to assist in search and rescue missions in Marshallese waters.

Requests for U.S. Coast Guard assistance must be made through the U.S. Embassy in Majuro.

- The Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies provides executive education and leader development to enhance Asia-Pacific Security cooperation. This training enhances understanding of U.S. policy in the region. There have been 22 RMI graduates of the program. Candidates for the program must be submitted through the U.S. Embassy, Majuro.

- JIATF West is PACOM's executive agent for DoD counter drug issues in Asian and the Western Pacific and executes a robust U.S. Law Enforcement and partner nation support program. While not a law enforcement agency, JIATF West provides support and coordination.

- PACOM medical support of the Marshalls and USAKA in the past year has included the Pacific Island Healthcare Program with the healthcare project, healthcare referral program and telemedicine; the visit of the USS Boxer to Majuro and the assistance to the RMI government following a fire at the Majuro hospital.

- In fiscal year 2005, 594 Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Tests were given in the RMI. During that time 12 RMI citizens joined the U.S. Armed Forces, 11 in the Army and one in the Navy. The next processing deployment is scheduled for August.

Great vacation one stop away

By Elizabeth Davie
Reporter

Looking for a place to vacation? Grant Ismael from the Kosrae Visitor's Center was on island last week providing residents with information about Kosrae.

Kosrae is a 42-square-mile island located a few hours southeast of Guam and few hours southwest of Hawaii. According to the Kosrae Visitor's Center's Web site, it is known for its virgin reef and pristine waters, visibility up to 200 plus feet and thriving hard coral society.

"Kosrae is only one stop away on the Island Hopper, so you can be there in a couple of hours, but it feels like a much different place than Kwaj. We spent a long weekend there and felt like we had been away for weeks," said Kwaj resident Jeff Halliday.

When asked why someone from Kwaj would want to go to another island on vacation, Ismael said, "Kosrae is not like any where else in the world, it is a place you go to get away."

Here are a few interesting places and things to do listed on the Web site:

Bird watching

There are several species of endemic birds on Kosrae including the state bird, Kosrae dusky white eye, a little fragile gray bird climbing up the coconut trees probing in the cracks in the barks for insects and very friendly. Others are the Micronesian pigeons, colorful purple capped fruit dove, Micronesian starling, which foretell ripen of all island fruits, cardinals, honey eaters, frigate bird and coastal/mangrove residents like black and brown noddy, reef heron, Kosrae crane, island swiftlets, long tailed cuckoo, ferry tern, tropic bird, etc.

Mount Oma hiking trails

The hike yields some of the most beautiful sites in Kosrae with tropical fauna, flora and cascading waterfalls, World War II caves and is a few feet shy of Mount Kosrae offers virgin reefs, pristine water, with visibility of 200 feet or more, and thriving coral.

Finkel. The tour may take from 6 to 7 hours. Also available are short hikes of 45 minutes.

Lelu ruins

These ruins are considered one of the wonders of the Pacific and once an ancient ruling empire complex of the entire Micronesian region where similar versions of this ruin are replicated in Pohnpei and other islands. Huge basaltic slabs are arranged to make 20-foot walls and encompassed a capital city in the ancient times. The historical site dates back to the 13th century and these ruins of large basaltic walls, channels, streets, tombs, and living quarters can be explored.

Giant clam farm

This is a national project where protected giant clams that reached up to 3 meters long are raised and taken out to the aquaculture sanctuary in the reefs off Walung. This is located on the causeway. It is a good combination of tour activity for sightseers. Recently, the aquaculture staff deployed more than 50 giant clams to buoy for tourist entertainment.

Diving is also popular there. "We have a lot of divers from Kwaj, and they love the range we have from coral reef tops to technical diving," said Kosrae resident Katrina Adams.

"We are avid scuba divers, and we had some of the best diving we've seen. They have beautiful unspoiled coral, clear water and a number of fish species we hadn't seen on Kwajalein. We especially liked the little, 1 inch or so, Christmas Tree Worms. They live in the larger hard corals and come in multiple colors. They are shaped like Christmas trees, and they disappear into their burrows if you touch them gently," Halliday said.

Boating on tranquil waterways is a way to spend a peaceful day on Kosrae.

"Paperwork must be signed by the divers that commit them to not disturbing the reef or reef creatures. The reefs were incredible with the absence of anchor potholes" said Alex Britain, Kwaj resident.

If this is not enough to tempt someone to visit Kosrae, Ismael added, "It is not like Waikiki or Guam, there are tons of things to do, we will fill up your schedule for you or just leave you alone."

For more information on visiting Kosrae, contact your travel agent or visit www.visit-fsm.org/kosrae/index.html.

More hardy adventurers can take one of the many hiking trails through lush tropical vegetation and streams.

We had a military with planes that couldn't fly and ships that couldn't sail due to lack of spare parts and maintenance because there was no funding. The military was short of even basic needs like ammunition.

We were actually told by our elected leaders that we might have to face the fact that America's best days were behind her.

Americans hung their heads in shame and a terrible depression seemed to come over the country. It was really a dark period.

In the midst of all this, the Winter Olympics came to Lake Placid, N.Y., in 1980.

Americans had never done well in the Winter Olympics. We usually got trounced by the Soviets or the East Germans who, everybody knew were professional athletes, while ours were true amateurs.

This Olympics promised to be no better, especially in ice hockey. The U.S. team was a bunch of college players who had little international experience. They had been crushed by the Soviet team in an exhibition game earlier.

Everyone figured they would be blown out in the first round of play.

Incredibly though, the Americans reached the medal round with a record of four wins, no losses and one tie.

But standing in the way of the gold medal round was the Soviet team.

At game time, the hockey arena was filled to standing room only. American flags were everywhere. Millions watched on TV as the U.S. team fell behind early and then battled back to tie the game in the first period. The Soviets took the lead again at 3-2, and held it into the third period, but the Americans scored to tie the game again. With just minutes left, team captain Mike Eruzione scored the go-ahead goal.

I don't know how many years I have left, but however long I live, I will never forget announcer Al Michaels counting down the remaining seconds, 5—4—3, and then joyously shouting that now famous question, "Do you believe in miracles?"

The final second ticked off and bedlam ensued. The team hugged each other and went wild.

I could feel the elation as the arena crowd, overcome with joy, chanted over and over, USA! USA! USA!

I was shouting it in my living room with tears in my eyes and then I heard my neighbors chanting it too. USA! USA! USA! People were outside in their yards waving American flags and yelling with happiness.

Here at last was pride. Here at last was another chance to be proud to be Americans. That team had done the impossible. They had beaten the mighty Soviets. God, I'll never forget that feeling and the emotion of it.

At a time when America really needed a win, that hockey team carried the hopes of a nation on its shoulders.

After that day, Americans started holding their heads high again. America started her comeback.

In November of 1980, Ronald Reagan was elected president, the hostages were freed in Iran and America was back.

Yes, winning a medal can bring pride. But sometimes, it means so much more than that. Sometimes, it can heal a nation's wounded soul.

ability campaign as it relates to mission requirements with the joint operations area partners in an effort to gain better situational awareness regarding response efforts during a homeland defense or civil-support emergency. Included in the services provided through JTF-HD is coordination of planning for emergencies such as a possible Avian Flu pandemic.

Morris applauded the RMI support of the United States. She identified several ways in which the RMI demonstrates its commitment to the joint goals of the two countries including through "the courageous participation of its [RMI] men and women in the U.S. Armed Forces, including in Iraq and Afghanistan. We are very grateful for that support," she said.

She added that the United States supports the joint goal as well. "We are committed to defend the RMI as if it were part of the U.S.," she said. She added, "Through the Amended Compact, which extends until the end of 2023, the U.S. is providing assistance to help the RMI develop a self-sustaining economy and improve the lives of its people through better education and health care, good governance and economical development."

She continued, "Our assistance is not limited to the Compact alone. The Federal Aviation Administration is providing $26 million to improve the safety and facilities of the Amata Kabua International Airport, and the U.S. government is providing another $18 million in grants and programs."

She said, "One of the reasons why I believe these meetings, and the cooperation they represent, are so important is because we don't always know what future opportunities or challenges lie ahead."

Attendees representing the United States included: Stipe, Klein, Dr. John Fairlamb, SMDC, Col. Mark Stank, United States Air Force, USPACOM Southeast Asia, South Asia and Oceania Policy division chief and, Maj. Jennifer Hughes, United States Air Force, Oceania Country director for USPACOM.
